Sujet: A new (maybe far-fetched) chronology of the attack on Flead

Posté le 25/02/2004 15:48:56

OK We've all agreed on the plot holes and everything that is missing in the anime to correctly understand what was meant, but I just thought of something.

1) Actarus was sent to Moru (Pallas) as an exchange student (as it's said in the anime). Pallas would therefore be the 1st planet to be attacked by Vega. We can assume that this would be an argument in favour of Vega. Indeed, in the general bargain to obtain Grendizer if we admit that it was constructed by Fleadians, the Vegans would therefore had an edge, for example : 'if you don't give us Grendizer then we attack you like we did to Moros, but as a proof of our goodwill, I, King Vega, offer my daughter to your son, dear King Flead!!! '

2)The proposal is a failure : Vegalia is in love with this beautiful Prince but he isn't although he's ready to accept the sacrifice for his planet's sake. (we can also assume that this proposal was going on when Actarus was on Pallas)

3) The attack on Flead : Vega attacks, with lazernium bombs, Actarus is contaminated with radiations, He's been already hurt on his arm during the attack on Pallas.

Those 2 attacks could have taken place in a matter of a few days or weeks, depending on the chronology we want to put in. Indeed, if we analyse the general pattern of a declaration of war, even with extremist or dictatorial regimes, there are always negotiations that give time whether to avoid or differ the conflict (ex Munich 1938) or ultimatums giving time to draft and mobilize the armies (cf 1st world war july aug 1914).

4) Flead is attacked : the 1st step is to kill the royal family, or rather the ruling couple living 2 young children, heirs, easily manipulatable. BUT Actarus resists, Maria is sent away. Actarus might have still been able to marry Vegalia when he had been arrested. This would make sense. Indeed, Vega wants to dominate the populations but in a way needs them : cf Planet Rubi, having the prince of Flead as a puppet would definitely serve his purpose. But Actarus escapes unexpectedly and steals Grendizer before the Vegan forces had even had the time to figure out how the machine worked!

5) Actarus tries to free his planet but cannot eventually he fled. He wasn't able to properly pilot G. which is conceivable since he was rather young and had never had to fight before.

I know this might seems a bit far-fetched but somehow it reconciliates all that we've been discussing on the forum.

Jerome, I am sorry for not being able to elaborate deeply now. But I have some quick remarks:

1) from ep2 Japanese edition it appears that Flead has been the first planet conquered by Vega in its expansionism plan, as the Allied Forces had been created for the specific purpose to attack Flead.

2) in ep71 Japanese edition, it's said that Vega conquered Moru planet 3 years before the happenings of ep71 itself. In ep72 Zuril says that Rubina and DF got engaged 8 years ago

3) ep71 flashbacks are all located on planet Flead according to DF's words. It was Moru who was in the status of exchange student (or anyway was visiting his friend) during the attack to Flead, even if DF himself was sent to Moru with the same role various times in the past

Hope these indications could help in having fun in elaborating theories upon Planet Flead attack timeline... ^_^

I quite like your timeline, Jérôme, and I think it would definitely fit with the French version. According to some dialogues in the FV, Vega attempted strategies on Flead similar to those he employs on earth: Actarus (not Daisuke) states that they used local animals which they turned into cyborgs to attack Flead.

Of course, this too, may be a French invention. I'm sure Suzi and Gerdha will let us know about possible differences.

Dear Gerdha, I know my version is not accurate and does not fit the Japanese or italian version but somehow it fits (as Agnès wrote) the French one, and avoids the plot holes...we've been discussing a lot.

I taught of another possibility, with the technology the Vegans had and lack of weapons than Flead had, they could had made an "attaque-éclair" (I don't know the exact English word).

Also, how many years than Akereb-la-rouge (Eudix/Yara's own planet once?) was conquered by Vega? Maybe it was attacked before Flead as well

Salut Stéphane,

Indeed, it must have been a 'Blitzkrieg' or 'Lightning war' (both are used in English).

I do agree with you about Akéreb. definitely the planet must have been already conquered, because Actarus knew about its reputation (if my recollection is good!). It could have been a penal colony, a planet located in the vicinity of Stykadès, filled with metal and energy ores, hence its conquest.
