

Simplify Database Management with Oracle9i

Take the headache out of your database management. Oracle9i Database offers easy-to-use tools to simplify database management and increase performance...

»click here

Jérôme

Why should it all end up in a gender opposition??

Mon Dec 2 04:41:26 2002

212.198.0.96

I'm sorry guys (both sexes here are considered in the expression) but it's not a question of women or men reacting to the anime, that ends up in a cul de sac/dead end if you prefer and avoid the main issue to my point of view.

Definitely, if Hydargos has to be considered as stupid (he may act sometimes erratically), but then so is the Grand stratéguerre, Minos and even Horos. You take pride for stupidity, there's a big difference. Those generals, and commandants are all in a position where they face defeat while they've been victors for years or even decades (think of all the planets conquered by Vega mentioned in the series). There on Earth, there's a tiny center, barely armed with antiquitated weapons but one : Goldorak. Humans can't even fly through space, the hidden half of the moon is not even reachable to their technology. Beating them up should be a piece of cake but well eventually it's not. Why? Not because of Goldorak only. it's due to the fact that the robot has been improved progressively and constantly while the resources of Vega were step by step diminishing. This is a war of attrition.

One must add as well the fact that the main diplomacy and the policy of the Gstratéguerre have never really been based on logic but more on irrational outburst of hate and desires, in other words passions (in the philosophical sense). That's exactly what one should avoid in the military 'business'. A strong headquarter is compulsory to victory.

In many ways, this pattern developed in Vega resembles the Nazi system and organization : I mean Hitler who was supposed to have all the powers, had many indeed (his generals as well and they were all competing to get closer to the Führer, same as in Grendizer no?) but he was eventually acting more according to his fads and passions than on pure logic and efficiency. If so He would have never attacked the USSR before defeating the UK. Ian Kershaw, THE specialist on Hitler (1000 pages and 2 volumes in his last Biography of the Dictator!) outlined the fact that the Nazi state was not that efficient especially in the last years because of coteries and clans and of the Hitler's inability to grasp the new issues of the war, blinded as he was by the Final Solution and his hate in general (his madness in other words, but that's my point of view) and there are many examples like that. Not only in recent history.

So I guess that more than the stupidity of Hydargos, after all we are always the Dummass of someone else, aren't we, we should consider the general pattern underlying his actions, which was the crude competition between the generals of Vega to obtain favors from him.

I myself consider Hydargos' death exemplary and in that he's not stupid, it showed that he believed in what he had been doing for years (even though I do not endorse his behavioral attitudes and ideals).

He died a hero, of course one we cannot and shouldn't identify to, but a hero nonetheless. One must never forget in order to fully understand the past hence the present that every side must be considered. Who knows exactly How one would have reacted against nazi oppression in 1941 for instance? It's so easy to say today that we all would have been resistants! that is pure demagoguery and prevents us from doing our own true psychological analysis on that matter.

I know I may as usual over analyze things, especially if they are supposed to be based on an anime. But As I said before (Agnès and Gerdha did as well) one must consider what came out of this anime when we watched it : these considerations on good and bad and all the shades of grey in between etc. Hydargos may have been an alcoholic, hateful character but in his death he owned my respect, a bit like Minas when she got killed by Minos.

But that should be for another post....

As a conclusion, it's not a men's thing and not a women's thing : I don't like these categories for they are biased.

Never forget Man that you have a female chromosom in your body!!!! and that without one another we are nothing aren't we? whatever our sexual preferences? We all need to interact with one another. I'm out of my mind now I should stop....

Post a ResponseReturn to Articles

Find love at Heart Detective! Click Here! — Server.com Sponsor

Internet
Web Hosting
Affiliate Programs
E-commerce

Internet Marketing
Web Site Promotion
DSL
Domain Registration

jérôme

I never implied that either

Mon Dec 2 18:11:19 2002

212.198.0.96

Sorry as well! you may have misunderstood me and I never implied that any of you would be ready to fight in that matter. I knew somehow it was a joke, and a titillation between you both.

I just wanted to point out the fact that indeed, whatever the circumstances it all comes back to that (and not only in this forum, or about Grendizer). She should analyse the historical background, religious one as well (esp. in Italy or in France).

I guess it has as well a special effect on me for as I mentioned in another post (to Agnès maybe) I worked on those issues a few years ago, and consequently read a lot, especially a large amount of American books some of them (few) excellent, most of them (a lot) completely biased to my point of view.

I do believe you when you say that you experience the difference of sexes everyday in your life and I guess it's true some men must easily get to this conclusion : "she's not efficient enough, or anything enough, because she is a woman". Primitive thought you must admit but alas shared by so many of my gender.

That's why sometimes I just may burst a bit. I'm a feminist hidden in a man's body^_^ . Sigmund Freud Analyse this, as a famous singer and bad actress sings on the air right now!!!

It somehow amazes me that we can have those discussions on this forum and it really thrills me.
Thanks you my friend!

Post a Response

Return to Articles

Find love at Heart Detective! Click Here! — Server.com Sponsor